

Science Forum: South Africa – 2015

Pretoria, 8 – 9 December 2015

Programme now available

View the exciting provisional Forum programme which includes speakers and panellists from the Americas, Asia, Australasia and Europe, and a very strong participation from other African countries. Leaders of the South African National System of Innovation and leading South African scientists also feature prominently on the programme.

Science Diplomacy Awards - nominate now!

The "Science Diplomacy Awards", to be conferred during the Forum's closing plenary session, will allow us to celebrate and more importantly to be inspired by examples of success stories where international cooperation in science, technology and innovation was put at work to create the better world we all aspire to. There is still time to submit your nominations of international partnerships, which you may deem to be fitting of such recognition by 25 November 2015.

Exhibition

The list of exhibitors is now available, and you can also view the stand layout. There are 41 exhibitors from the local and international science community, and we are confident the exhibition will be a vibrant marketplace for the exchange of ideas and the formation of partnerships.

Registration

We currently have more than 605 registered participants (including speakers, panellists and exhibitors) from more than 45 countries. Don't miss out - please complete the registration form before 30 November 2015. There is no registration fee to attend the Forum.
